

The NHS Retirement Fellowship

The NHS Retirement Fellowship is a registered charity, created in 1978 for the benefit of all employees of the NHS, together with their partners. Thousands of Fellowship members enjoy a range of social, leisure, educational and welfare activities through a network of branches across the UK. The branch provides a venue for healthcare staff to continue friendships formed during employment and offers the opportunity for individuals to make new friends and enjoy the companionship of people from a shared NHS background. Members come from all sections of the NHS.

Benefits of membership

Individuals can join a local branch whether or not they have worked in the area previously. An annual conference and holiday with organised activities is open to all members and friends. At conference, branches put forward motions for debate and, if passed, these are sent to the relevant government department. As an organisation, the Fellowship can lobby government more effectively than an individual or a branch. A Benevolent Fund is available to support members and their partners in financial need – subject to certain criteria.

In areas where there is no local branch a retiree can still join the NHSRF as a national member and receive the newsletter and other information from Central Office, enjoy the benefits negotiated for members and attend the annual conference.

A national insurance policy covers all members and staff on Fellowship business for public and employers' liability. Other benefits include a free legal service to members in England, Scotland and Wales, NHS Discounts, access to preferential rates for personal insurance and an annual holiday abroad. You will also receive our quarterly Newsletter together with all the useful information and great offers in "Club Together"
