

Are you thinking about, or already training for, a career in social work?

There is bursary funding available to help you if you are on an undergraduate/postgraduate social work training course in England.

Undergraduate students are funded from their second year of training and receive a Placement Travel Allowance (PTA).

Postgraduate students are funded from their first year, receive the PTA and can apply for additional allowances:

- Adult Dependants Allowance
- Childcare Allowance
- Parents' Learning Allowance
- Disabled Student Allowance

To receive the bursary, your university/college must decide to include you in their capping allocation.

All eligible students not included in capping allocations can apply for the PTA.

Social Work Bursaries do not have to be repaid after you complete your course.
