NHS Pensions - Death on pension

If you are informed that a Scheme pensioner has died, please ask the informant to write to us.

Overview - Benefits payable when a pensioner dies

If a Scheme pensioner dies within five years of retirement a lump sum on death may be applicable.

Lump sum on death benefit

The amount payable will depend on the total amount of retirement benefits the member has received from the Scheme up to the date of death. Sometimes the Scheme’s liability may have already been met e.g. if the member received a bigger lump sum when they retired because they exchanged some of their pension.

The lump sum on death is equal to the lesser of:

- five times the yearly rate of the pension in payment on the member's death (excluding any Additional Pension), less the amount of pension already paid (excluding any Additional Pension), or
- the lump sum on death that would have been payable had the member died on the last day of pensionable employment as an active member

Dependant’s benefits

Where the member marries, forms a civil partnership or has a qualifying Scheme partner before leaving pensionable employment, we will pay an initial adult dependant’s pension to any surviving partner for three months, six months if there is at least one dependent child, from the day after the date of death, at the same rate of pension the member was receiving at the day they died (including Additional Pension). This will be followed by a continuing adult dependant’s pension, equal to the appropriate fraction of the member’s pension. Where the member marries, forms a civil partnership, or has a qualifying Scheme partner after leaving pensionable employment, we will still pay an initial adult dependant’s pension to any surviving partner as described above, however the continuing survivor pension will be calculated in a different way (see below)
(i) Wife of a male member based on pensionable service from 6 April 1978
(ii) Husband of female member based on pensionable service from 6 April 1988
(iii) Civil partner based on pensionable service from 6 April 1988
(iv) Qualifying Scheme partner based on pensionable service from 6 April 1988
(v) Spouse of same sex couple based on pensionable service from 6 April 1988

For (i) no account is taken of any added years contracts where the start date is before 6 April 1978, single payment added years, or transferred in membership with a material date before 6 April 1978.

For (ii) to (v) no account is taken of any added years contracts where the start date is before 6 April 1988, single payment added years, or transferred in membership with a material date before 6 April 1988.

For (i) to (v) above no account is taken of any ill health build up or doubled years that was part of the pensioner’s award.

For all surviving partners if an increased survivor pension was purchased it will be included in the calculation.

If there are dependent children a children’s pension may also be payable.

What happens when NHS Pensions are informed of the death of a Scheme pensioner?

When informed of the death of a Scheme pensioner, we may send a claim form to the informant for the survivor pension to be claimed.

We will update our records accordingly and check if a lump sum on death payment is due.

If a lump sum on death is due we may write to the informant for the name and address of the personal representative.

Any lump sum must be paid within two years of the date that the Scheme was first notified of the member’s death. After two years the lump sum will be subject to a HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) tax charge of up to 45%. NHS Pensions has no discretion and must deduct the tax charge from the lump sum payment.

We will pay the lump sum on death and notify the personal representative of the amount of Life Time Allowance used. It is the responsibility of NHS Pensions to inform the claimant if any documentation relating to probate is required before the lump sum on death is paid.
We will check the member’s record to see if there were any children who were dependent upon the member when they left pensionable employment, and if necessary will issue a children’s pension application form AW158. When the completed claim form and all necessary papers are returned we will consider the claimant’s eligibility to receive a children’s pension.

If the member marries, forms a civil partnership, or has a qualifying Scheme partner after they left pensionable employment, NHS Pensions will issue the necessary claim form. When the completed form and necessary papers are returned we will consider the claimant’s eligibility to receive an adult dependant’s pension.

If the continuing adult dependant’s pension is less than £260 a year, we will automatically convert it to a one off lump sum (known as trivial commutation) and pay this.

Where a continuing adult dependant’s pension is £260 a year or more, it will be paid as a monthly pension, unless the surviving partner asks for the continuing pension to be trivially commuted. NHS Pensions will consider a written request at the point of claim or post payment, provided the conditions are met. Her Majesty’s Revenue and Customs rules only allow this if the gross lump sum does not exceed the current commutation limit of £30,000.

Where the request is made post payment the recipient must agree to offset any pension already paid to them against any lump sum due.

A trivial commutation lump sum cannot be paid where there is at least one child eligible for a children’s pension at the date of death.
